Three College Teams Play
Saturday Night
PLANS COMPLETE

McGill Team Has Final Practice for the Year

The game against Queen's on Saturday which terminated in a win for McGill, has caused a triple tie in the Intercollegiate Basketball League and as the result of a meeting at which delegates of the three universities in the league met on Saturday after the game it was decided to have the play-off on Friday and Saturday of this week in Ottawa.

During the past two days Manager Eadie of the McGill Basketball club has been busy arranging the details for the games, and these have now been completed. As the result of the draw on Saturday it was decided that McGill and Queen's should meet in the first game on Friday night. The games are to be played in the Ottawa Y.M.C.A., the first one to start at 8:45. At the request of the three clubs playing, Mr. P. S. Manley, who handled the games in Montreal this year, will go to Ottawa to referee the deciding games of the series.

The McGill team held its final practice for the year last night. All the men were in good condition and went through a rather stiff drill. The Intermediate team turned out against them and provided plenty of opposition. The squad that will in all probability leave for Ottawa is composed of the following men: Manson, Crain, Little, Turpel, Mendelsohn, Amarion, Hilton and Philpott.

The team which loses on Friday will it is hoped, play the Ottawa city champions on Saturday night before the winner meets Toronto. The team is expected to leave the city on the four o'clock Grand Trunk train.

All followers of basketball in Montreal have a fair idea of the Red and White's chances. Losing their first two games of the season by close scores, the home team invaded Toronto and succeeded in winning a victory. Then by defeating Queen's on the Montreal floor they created a triple tie. If the scores of the two games with each college are totalled McGill is found to have a lead of a single point on Toronto, and a twelve-point lead on Queen's. In all the games McGill has been weak in the first period but rallied toward the close of the play.

Although the McGill team had its last practice last night they have yet five games to play. The week-end will give the players plenty of work and on Monday they meet the M.A.A. Blues to complete their section of the City League. On Wednesday and Saturday they play home and home games with the M.A.A. Reds to settle the city championships. At the close of the practice Coach Wagner thanked the Intermediate

M.S.P.E. TEAM AND VARSITY MEET ON ICE

Physical Eds Hope to Avenge
R.V.C. Defeat Today
AT THE ARENA

Miss "Flin" Flanagan Will Hold Down Right Wing

The visiting girls hockey team from Varsity play their second match against McGill today. An exhibition game with the M.S.P.E. will take place at 5 o'clock in the Mount Royal Arena. This contest should provide exciting hockey from the spectator's point of view. The Toronto players, with last night's victory to their credit, and holders of the Intercollegiate championship, will defend their laurels zealously. The Physical Eds. must uphold the prestige of Old McGill and do their fighting best to avenge the R.V.C. defeat.

"Shag's" proteges have worked hard since the beginning of the season, and have made good steady progress. They have won five out of six matches in the Montreal Ladies' Hockey League, and are now tied with the R.V.C. for the championship.

The injury of Miss Florence Gardner left a big gap in the team, but a strong aggregation will face the Varsity girls to-night. Miss Powell is a steady and hard working centre. She is assisted by Miss "Flin" Flanagan, and Miss Roberts at right and left wing respectively. Miss Flanagan has an excellent shot, while Miss Roberts can be relied on to worry the opposing goal-keeper with equal facility. Miss Coll and Miss Snyder both played against Toronto last year and will look after the defensive end of the game, with Miss Lawford behind them as guardian of the nets.

Tickets for the game may be secured at the different University buildings—price 55c. each. The game will begin at 5 o'clock sharp.

The line-ups are as follows:
Varsity M.S.P.E.
Goal.
E. M. Robertson E. Lawford
Defence .
M. C. Donaldson C. Coll
O. Mews E. Snyder
Centre.
M. Fenwick P. Powell
Forwards.
M. R. Thomas F. Flanagan
A. M. Hilliard H. Roberts
Subs.
B. Ross B. Dennis
A. M. Thomas J. Stone
A. L. Hazelwood D. McArthur
L. Lehan

A team for turning out as they have this year to help the Senior squad. Despite the fact that sometimes during the season they had two games a week and as well as the practices, this team has been on hand to give the Seniors a scrap at every practice. Led by Captain Scharfe and with "Bill" James, Snyder, Bronson, Hodina, Rafalovitch and Philpott playing on the team they have managed to finish second in their section of the City League.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN CLASS PRESIDENTS

Meeting in Regard to Allotment of Theatre Tickets

ORCHESTRA PRACTICE

Representatives Asked to Notify All Musicians

At one o'clock yesterday a meeting of Class Presidents was held in the Music Room of the Union at which the arrangements for the seating at the Theatre Night Re-union were explained by C. D. Fraser, Secretary of the Union, and R. L. Hamilton, President of the Students' Council. The seat sale will, in all probability, open early next week, and it was in order to avoid any confusion among the classes that such a gathering was held. It had first been planned to have a block of seats allotted to each class; there are numerous disadvantages to such an arrangement, however, for often men wish to sit together as fraternities or other organizations rather than in classes. Again it might easily happen that one section of a class would prefer to sit in one part of the house, and another section elsewhere.

For these reasons, the final decision is as follows: The class representatives who were at yesterday's meeting will ask the men in their respective classes who wish to go to notify them at once; and, when letting them know this, to advise them also what group they wish to go with. In this way the different groups will be formed without any misapprehensions arising, and then the tickets for these can be procured from C. D. Fraser and sold to the men.

The graduates and the Faculty will likely reserve all the boxes, as they have both promised whole-hearted support. A general summary of the rest of the seats available is as follows:—
First 25 rows in orchestra . . . 85c
Next 12 rows in orchestra . . . 55c
First 7 rows in balcony 55c
Rest of balcony 40c

All these prices are including the tax. Following this business Hamilton told something of the progress that has been made and of the plans that are under way. It is expected that an expert director will be secured for the acting, as well as one to supervise the musical part of the programme. In connection with any costumes which are necessary, Hamilton made it clear that each faculty was responsible for the financing of its own skirt; this does not seem at all unreasonable, as the acts will only be of 15 minutes duration. This measure was taken in order that the Students' Council need not feel any unnecessary burden of responsibility, as they already have

MANDOLINISTS ARE BILLED AT ALLEN

Pick-Artists Featured at that Theatre Tonight

The Mandolin Club's return engagement at the Allen Theatre is scheduled to take place tonight at 8:30, when attractive selections and a goodly attendance of the sons of Old McGill are expected to make for as successful a "McGill Night" as the previous one held.

The club, after numerous practices and many engagements, is now in perfect form to render the selections that have been carefully chosen for this evening's programme. The orchestra at their previous engagement before Christmas drew a full house and as some critics say, "were encored halfway into the next picture"; hence everyone attending the performance will undoubtedly enjoy every item if they arrive early enough to obtain a seat.

The order of the programme will be somewhat similar to that given before Christmas:
"Put on your Red and White Sweater,"
"McGill March,"
"Baby Blue Eyes,"
Banjo Duet by the Hargraves Bros.
"Dance of the Skeletons,"
"Carolina in the Morning,"
"Fire Drill."

This varied programme consists of marches for which the club is renowned, and also a few of the popular numbers. The Banjo Duet by the Hargraves Brothers will be one of the feature numbers. Glen Adney at the piano and Edgar Herring on the marimbaphones, along with the brass section of the orchestra are expected to shine in one number at least.

R.V.C. HOCKEY TEAM LOSES TO VARSITY

Intercollegiate Title Goes to Toronto

SCORE 9-0

Combination and Speed of Victors Prove Superior

Yesterday afternoon, in the Mount Royal Arena, before over five hundred people, the Varsity hockey team inflicted a 9-0 defeat on the R.V.C. six. As a result of this game the much coveted William Beatty Trophy will remain another year in the Queen City awaiting the rescuing hand of what is hoped will next year prove a champion R. V. C. team.

The opening of the first period saw the puck in possession of the Varsity centre, Miss Fenwick. Ably backed by her wings, she attempted to score, but was unsuccessful. Miss Donaldson also, in an attempt to score a few minutes later, failed through the watchfulness of Miss Kerr, the R.V.C. goaler. Miss Marshall then, in a lone rush, tried to net a goal for R.V.C. but was unable to pass the sturdy Varsity defence line. The play was at first evenly divided, the puck travelling back and forth towards each goal with equal rapidity. Time and time again Miss Fry attempted to break away with the puck, but the Varsity checking was too effective. R. V. C. now began a defensive game. Skating for some time was fast and furious, Miss Stocking breaking away more than once, but due to lack of combination on the forward line R.V.C. failed to score.

On a shot from the boards some time later Miss Hilliard netted the first goal for Varsity, while Miss Donaldson in a like attempt a few seconds later failed. Miss Roy, then in a spectacular rush up the ice, succeeded in out-manoeuvring the Varsity defence line, but was unable to score. In a return attempt the Varsity star defence, O. Mews, also failed to score. Play, on the part of the home team, became decidedly aggressive, and the rink echoed continually with the cheers that rose time and time again when Miss Roy, assisted by Miss Stocking, made rush after rush down the ice in promising attacks. Miss Hilliard at length again succeeded in scoring for Varsity. The Varsity wings and defence in turn made many attempts to score, but with R.V.C. playing her three-man defence line and Miss Kerr guarding the nets, such was impossible. Towards the end of the period the play around the R.V.C. goal was fast and furious, Miss Kerr playing a game in the nets that took the spectators by storm. Miss Marshall and Miss Roy again attempted to score for R.V.C., but failed; in a return rush the Varsity defence, Miss Mews, failed also to score. The period ended with the score 2-0 in favor of Varsity.

The second period opened with mingled feelings of trepidation and hopefulness on the part of R.V.C.'s supporters. In the beginning Miss Stocking procured the puck, but the terror of the Varsity defence line, Miss Mews, soon deprived her of her advantage, though with no marked success in a return rush

HAPLAIN TO KING VISITS OLD MCGILL

Addresses the Student Body Today

NOTED CAREER

Describes Conditions in England as More Hopeful

This afternoon at five o'clock the Very Rev. Albert Baillie, M.A., C.V.O., Dean of Windsor and Chaplain to His Majesty the King, will deliver an address in the Royal Victoria College under the auspices of the McGill Canadian Club.

The Canadian Club has indeed been fortunate in obtaining during the year a number of notable speakers. Among the list are to be noted the Governor-General of Canada; an ex-Prime Minister of Canada; the foremost Admiral in the United States Navy, and others of equal prominence. The addition of the name of the Dean of Windsor to this list is another achievement on the part of the executive of the club.

The Dean of Windsor has had a distinguished career in his church. Born in 1864, Dr. Baillie was educated at Marlborough College and Trinity College, Dublin. In his youth he displayed marked ability as a public speaker. At the age of 34 Dr. Baillie was appointed Rural Dean and Rector of Rugby. From 1906 to 1917 he occupied the post of the Honourable Canon of Worcester. At the end of his term of office he was appointed Chaplain to His Majesty and Dean of Windsor.

Peculiar interest is attached to the visit of Dr. Baillie to this country. He is the nephew of Lord Elgin, one of the early Governors-General of Canada.

Dr. Baillie has the reputation of being a confirmed optimist. When questioned concerning his views on the social aftermath of the war, he expressed himself in most hopeful terms. He does not consider the situation hopeless. They are the natural consequences of a period of abnormal excitement and will without doubt subside in the course of time. The Dean supported his opinion by a reference to the influence which came into play after Waterloo. For fifteen years after the close of the Napoleonic Wars religious influence was apparently dead; but after this period was over it revived. The Dean is confident that the same will be true of the present conditions.

It is of interest to note the picture given by the Dean of Windsor of the Royal Family. They are regular at

QUEEN'S PRINCIPAL ASKED TO DINNER

Many Well Known Men to Attend Arts Dinner

Several prominent speakers will be present at the Arts Undergrad Dinner, which takes place on March 20th at the Union. Sir Arthur Currie, Dean Laing, and Dr. Stephen Leacock have been secured, and the enviable reputation which these gentlemen bear as public speakers should indeed prove to be a drawing card. In addition the Executive have extended an invitation to Principal Bruce Taylor of Queens to attend as the official representative of that University. As yet it is not certain whether Dr. Taylor will be able to accept the invitation but the men in charge of the arrangements seem to be fairly confident on March 20th.

The Principal of Queens is no stranger to Montreal and McGill. For many years he had a large congregation in this city and was deeply interested in McGill. It would be interesting to hear the views of a Montrealeur exiled in the Limestone City.

The motto of the executive this year is "Every man out." Arrangements are being made to canvas all classes. It will not be necessary to buy the ticket at the moment, but anyone wishing or intending to go may sign along the dotted line on the list of the class representative.

All those who attended the Arts Undergrad. Dinner last year will no doubt be enthusiastic about the dinner this year. In fact these dinners have a reputation to keep up, and by all the signs the standard will not be lowered this year.

AN OCCASION FOR TALK

If there is one time more than another when one is inclined to become reminiscent, and to indulge in informal discussion, it is "over the teacup". The truth of this statement is amply borne out by the crowd which every afternoon takes possession of the Union tea-room, not so much, we are convinced, because its members are hungry, but rather because they desire to come into contact in an intimate, more personal way, with the man with whom they have lectures, or with whom they work over the lab. experiment. They have found that, seated comfortably in the tea-room, with a satisfying atmosphere about, things are wont to assume a reminiscent hue and that, under these circumstances, their ideas admit of facile exposition, whose informality is the guarantee of their continuity.

Similarly it is during the lunch or supper hour that wit is the readiest and discourse the most unrestricted. It is when man is most content that he is most willing to talk—and talk, after all, while possibly not highly intellectual, is, at times, highly satisfying. It is interesting and beneficial to learn of the workings of the mind of our colleague, it is astonishing to become aware of some of the notions that he has cherished, but which are made apparent by his spontaneous responses, it is gratifying to realize that we at last have been afforded an opportunity of expounding our pet theory when our hearers are too intent upon attending to the demands of their appetite to give it the thorough criticism which it deserves.

The incidental achievements of the supper table, in the form of conversation, are, in many respects, as noteworthy as its office in defeating hunger.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Very Rev. Albert Baillie, Dean of Windsor Castle and Chaplain to the King, will address the students of McGill this afternoon in the Convocation Hall of the Royal Victoria College. The meeting has been arranged through the agency of the McGill Canadian Club, under whose auspices the gathering will take place. It would be unnecessary to attempt to urge the undergraduate to be present at the meeting. It may be assumed, quite safely, that all who are able will attend. The honour extended to McGill, and the privilege offered to the student body, by the presence of such a notable visitor are all too evident to require emphasis here.

The spirit which prompts the campaign for the relief of Russian students is most commendable in its undoubted benevolent intent. That it will be greeted with acclaim at McGill is almost too much to expect when we consider the needs of the University and that of many individual students, as well as that of many young men and women in Canada who might be in a position to attend university lectures were financial assistance to be afforded them. However, no one would deny the right to give by those who so desire; and in this fact the campaign may have a partial justification.

FORMING ORCHESTRA FOR THEATRE NIGHT

Every Student Who Plays Invited to Join

At a meeting held in the Union Monday evening, plans were made for the formation of an orchestra for the McGill Theatre Night. Mr. H. E. Kay, director of the Glee Club and well known around college for the interest he has always taken in its musical affairs, has consented to act as director.

Considering the importance of the orchestra on an occasion of this kind, it has been decided to use all the talent available and make the orchestra as large as possible as long as a proper balance can be maintained among the various instruments. Therefore, every student in the university who can play any orchestral instrument, stringed, woodwind or brass, is invited to join the orchestra and thereby do his bit towards making the Theatre Night an unequalled success. Several students have already volunteered their services and the prospects are very encouraging.

The orchestra will be called upon to play opening and closing overtures and probably selections between acts, as well as to play any accompaniments which may be required by the various acts.

There are only three weeks in which to get ready for the "Big Night" and, while the music will not be difficult, it will take all this time to get things running smoothly. Practices will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings at 8:15 p.m. in the Ball Room of the Union. The first practice is called for tonight and a large attendance is expected.

She—Wasn't that a lovely gorge up in the mountains?
 He—Yes, the best feed I ever had.

NOTICES

SIGMA XI.

There will be an open meeting of the Sigma Xi Society in the Physics Building at 8 o'clock to-night. An invitation is issued to all to hear Dr. Eberts, Dr. Rabinovitch, and Professor Mackay speak on surgical, medical and engineering topics respectively.

NEWFOUNDLAND CLUB.

There will be a short business meeting of the Club to-night, Feb. 28, at 7 o'clock, Room B, Strathcona Hall. As the business to be discussed is of the utmost importance all members are requested to be present.

HISTORICAL CLUB.

Will meet to-day at 8:15 p.m. Papers on Lord Simcoe by L. C. Tombs, and on Lord Dorchester by W. L. Gourlay.

PSYCHOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Executive of the Psychological Society will be held to-day at 5 p.m. in the Psychological Laboratory.

TRIP TO OTTAWA.

Any ten men wishing to travel to Ottawa for the basketball play-off, in a party, can get a reduced fare of five dollars and ninety cents. Those making the trip should get together at once, to obtain the benefit of this reduction.

BOXERS, NOTICE!

Both the Amnapolis and Ottawa trips are on this week-end. The Intercollegiate winners will go to Amnapolis. Wilson, Champion and Marshall will make the Ottawa trip. All of the above will turn out for a work out to-day at 5 p.m.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL NOMINATIONS.

Nomination lists of nominees for the offices of President of the Students' Council, President, Vice-President and Secretary of the Union, respectively, must be in the hands of the Secretary of the Council by 6 p.m. Tuesday, March 6th. Elections will be held on March 14th.

PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY.

The next meeting of the Philosophical Society will be held in Strathcona Hall this evening, at eight o'clock. Professor J. W. A. Hickson will give a paper on "Intuition in Modern Philosophy." All interested are invited to attend.

THEATRE NIGHT.

An orchestra is being organized for the McGill Theatre Night. Any student who can play any orchestra instrument whatever is invited to join this organization and come to the first practice which is being held in the Union this evening at 8:15 o'clock. Subsequent practices will be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings. It is important that everybody who possibly can, should attend the first practice; but it would be appreciated if anyone who intends to join the orchestra, but cannot be on hand Wednesday, would give his name to W. P. Malone, Sci. '25, Phone W-3070. Everyone is requested to bring his Song Book.

Volunteers for positions as "property men" in the McGill Theatre Night proceedings are asked to apply in writing, Care of the Union, to the Chairman of the Theatre Night.

R.V.C. UNDERGRAD. SOCIETY.

There will be a meeting of the R. V. C. Undergraduate Society to-day at one o'clock, in the Common Room, to discuss McGill Theatre Night.

HISTORICAL CLUB AT UNION TONIGHT

Canadian History Topics by Tombs and Gourlay

The meeting of the Historical Club in the Union to-night should have a special appeal to students of Canadian History.

As is the usual custom, two papers will be read. One on Lord Dorchester and the other on Lord Simcoe. These papers will not deal merely with the lives of these men, but will treat of the period during which these governors held office. This period is crowded with events, which played a large part in the building of our Dominion, and so this opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the beginning of our history should not be lost.

L. C. Tombs, one of the speakers, has already established his ability to give interesting papers, and his associate, W. L. Gourlay, is favourably known as a member of His Majesty's Government.

CHEMISTRY.

The seventeenth colloquium for the session will be held in No. 2 class room of the Chemistry and Mining Building to-day, at five o'clock.

The subject for discussion will be: "Radioactive Elements as Indicators in Chemical Research," and will be introduced by Mr. P. G. Hiebert.

MEN OF SCIENCE

who are collecting for the European Students' Relief Fund will please hand a list of contributors to the leader in their year by 5 p.m. to-day. The leaders will please give these to Howes, or leave them at the Office, Strathcona Hall.

SCIENCE.

There will be a meeting held in Room 37 at 5 p.m. this afternoon to discuss Science's part in Theatre Night. All those interested are requested to attend.

EASTERN TOWNSHIP.

There will be a business meeting of the Eastern Townships Club in the Lounge Room of the Union at 7 p.m. to-night.

RADIO ASSOCIATION.

Mr. R. J. Clarke will give an address on Thermionic Values to the Radio Association on Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Physics Building. All those with a more or less imperfect knowledge of this subject should make a point of attending.

PHYSICAL SOCIETY.

Lt.-Commander C. P. Edwards, "Radio and Direction Finding," 5 p.m., Friday, March 2, in the Macdonald Physics Building.

To the Editor,

McGill Daily:

Dear Sir,—With regard to the campaign now under way at McGill for the purpose of raising money for the relief of the Russian Soviet Government, the fact that the Russian Soviet Government has recently exported 65,000 tons of grain to Germany and 8,000 tons to Finland. At the same time we are told by the National Information Bureau that eight million Russians will require relief, else they starve. We are further informed by the American Relief Administration that during the peak of the food shortage, that is in May, June and July, they will be feeding three of the eight millions starving, whereas the Soviet Government would look after four millions and European relief organizations would take care of the remaining million.

PLAYING WITH RUSSIAN FIRE.

"Press despatches call our attention to the fact that the Russian Soviet Government has recently exported 65,000 tons of grain to Germany and 8,000 tons to Finland. At the same time we are told by the National Information Bureau that eight million Russians will require relief, else they starve. We are further informed by the American Relief Administration that during the peak of the food shortage, that is in May, June and July, they will be feeding three of the eight millions starving, whereas the Soviet Government would look after four millions and European relief organizations would take care of the remaining million.

If this action of the Soviet Government in exporting food stuffs while 8,000,000 of its population are on the verge of starvation means anything, it must mean that Lenin-Trotsky & Co. are playing the outside world for a lot of "boobs." We keep their people from starvation in order that they may maintain a huge army in the field, an army which is a menace to civilization. Feeding Russia under such conditions is like smoking in a powder magazine."

THE SEVEN AGES OF MAN.

The seven ages of man have recently been tabulated on an acquisitive basis, as follows:

First Age—Sees the earth.
 Second Age—Wants it.
 Third Age—Starts to get it.
 Fourth Age—Decides to be satisfied with half of it.
 Fifth Age—Becomes still more moderate.
 Sixth Age—Now content to possess a six feet by two feet strip of it.
 Seventh Age—Gets that strip.—"Wise Saws."

"I wouldn't marry you," she said scornfully, "if you were the only man in the world."
 "No," he answered, "You'd probably get trampled to death in the rush."

CONGRATULATIONS TO MISS CANADA

Maritime Club Receives Reply to Message

Immediately upon hearing of the selection of Miss Winifred Blair, of St. John, N.B., as "Miss Canada," the Maritime Club of McGill sent her a bouquet of red and white carnations with the following message:

"Please accept the accompanying tribute in red and white, as expressing the heartiest congratulations of the Maritime Club of McGill University in your wonderful achievement of being chosen as the fairest and most accomplished of Canada's Fair Ladies. We consider it a great honor to yourself and to the Maritime Provinces, and wish you every success in the future."

The following reply has been received:—

St. John, N.B.,
 Mr. Donald J. MacGillivray,
 President, The Maritime Club,
 McGill University.

Dear Mr. MacGillivray:—Please accept for yourself and convey to the rest of the boys of the "Bluenose" Squad at McGill my best "Down East" thanks for your congratulations upon my selection as "Miss Canada." The accompanying tribute was very lovely indeed. I trust I shall not in any way dim the lustre that Maritime boys and girls have given the life of Canada as a whole.

Yours very truly,
 (Signed) WINIFRED C. BLAIR,
 MISS CANADA.

He—What do you think of the Volstead act?
 She—Why, dear, you know I never attend vaudeville.

The National Trade-mark

OLD silversmiths, in order to help people tell pure silver from cheaper imitations, marked the real thing "sterling."

In a like manner, manufacturers, who stand back of their wares, identify them with trade-marks that are your guarantee of quality. By advertising these trade-marks, they focus on their products the searchlight of attention.

Only good goods, fairly priced, can flourish in this light of publicity. For no merchandise and no business can thrive under the weight of public condemnation.

That is why a manufacturer, or a merchant, places the whole reputation of his business at stake every time he advertises. His goods must be as advertised.

So, in looking through this paper remember this: the man who spends his money to invite your consideration of his wares, backs up his belief in his goods and leaves the final decision to you.

It pays you to read the advertisements. It pays you to buy advertised products.

: THE DILETTANTE :

A LITTLE LOWER THAN THE ANGELS

"These souls, after the death of the bodies in which they have been dwelling, migrate into new bodies, and in this way continue their earthly existence. Thus may a soul in one life inhabit an insect, in a second a man of a woman, in a third a leopard or a beast of burden. The soul gives breath and life to the body, and in turn takes from the body many of its forms and characters, becoming in some sort like the body. So, too, as our wise men have observed, the soul in its travels towards a new body does not rid itself entirely of the influence of the old, and we therefore find men whose souls have previously dwelt in tigers or in oxen showing in some degree, both in their appearance and in their minds, many of the qualities which belong more properly to these animals."—From a recent translation of an ancient Hindustani Saga. Abridged.

Verily, light cometh from the East! In this short quotation, instinct with the mysterious wisdom of antiquity, I found the answer to many perplexing questions. I had wondered why we so often referred to our fellow-men in terms that apparently applied only to the lower animals. I had speculated on that strange trick of speech that made us talk of "the lion of the hour," "the cock of the walk," "bovine complacency," and "pig-headedness" in our references to the men and women of our acquaintance. Was it mere accident?—The transmigrationist waved his magic wand, and all the difficulties disappeared.

That tall and stately woman, now, who walks into the drawing-room with slow and graceful steps, who bows with regal grandeur to the men who rush to pay her homage, whose every gesture is noble and magnificent,—perhaps she owes it all to a splendid untamed lioness, a true queen of the jungle, whose every wish was law, and who was truly monarch of all that she surveyed. That other woman, pale and drab and insignificant, fearful of the world's knocks, weary of the world's bustle, desiring only to be left in peace and quiet,—she must have been a tame Rabbit, worried and harassed, poor thing, by a young and thoughtless master, who made of her a timid and frightened creature. And that third, resplendent in silks and satins, vain of the glances of admiration cast in her direction, revelling in her beauty and in her attractiveness,—hers was the soul of a Peacock, living ever the same life amid new surroundings.

The man over in the corner, there, his features dull and heavy and uninteresting, his mind busy with dull and uninteresting thoughts, stupidly content with his dry and monotonous activities, devoid of a sense of humour to lighten the deadly sameness of his existence,—his spiritual ancestor was undoubtedly a Cow. The other standing near him, a man with the soul of an Ox, allows his strength and his abilities to be exploited by others who are keener-witted; day in and day out he plods along, giving to them the fruits of his labours, while he receives from them the pittance which enables him to continue working for them. There on the other side is the man whose soul came to him from an Ostentatious, who blinds himself to difficulties and obstructions in his path, and who finally, disregarding the advice of wiser and more discerning men, will embark upon some foolish project which will inevitably lead to failure and destruction.

These are uninteresting men and uninteresting scenes. Come with me across the way and I will show you something brighter. Look, we are in a dance-hall. Do you recognize these souls? Butterflies, of course, all of them, joyfully and carelessly intent upon the pleasures of the moment. They have stopped now, for something special is about to happen. Ah, we are indeed privileged. We are being allowed to see the special dance which has been prepared for this great occasion. See the girl, dainty and sweet and appealing, and the man, rough and cumbersome? A Gazelle dancing with a Hippopotamus! And there, looking on, that man with the head of a Wolf and the soul of a Wolf, ready to pounce upon the butterflies in his dance-hall, ready to crush their delicate wings if it can be done to his advantage.

Let us move on. Here is another room into which we are permitted to peep. There is a sewing-circle meeting in progress, and all the dear ladies are hard at work,—little busy Bees improving each shining hour. The buzz-buzz of their unceasing conversation completes the bee-hive picture. If we listen very carefully, however, we can hear a word or two of their chatter, just enough to let us know that some of them are members of the feline species, domestic variety.

Suppose we stop for a moment into an exclusive club-house, where the proud sons of the aristocracy gather on an evening. We find a pretty variety here. The president greets us, a fine fellow no doubt, but with his long neck and his supercilious stare he does look so much like a Giraffe. It isn't his fault; he can't help it. We walk on a bit, and we hear the club Rooster crowing, the chap who won the war, don'tcherknow, who struts his way through life, a composite picture, in his own mind at least, of all the virtues with which our little world is blessed and its conscience burdened. Seated alone in one corner of the room in a big arm-chair is the Owl, with a wise expression on his face, and wise-looking spectacles on his nose; he never says anything, and we shall probably never discover whether he is as wise as he looks. There is of course the Sloth, too lazy to do anything, too lazy to live almost; the Goat, the butt of all the ridicule and the cheap wit which invariably flows "when good fellows get together"; the Crocodile, arch-hypocrite that he is; the Bull-Dog, firm and tenacious of purpose, never wavering in his determination to win through. Scattered here and there are the rest of the members, Sheep, most of them, following the leader in thought and action, too far gone ever to rouse themselves from their intellectual lethargy. Finally we are shown out by the club steward, a faithful veteran of many years standing, an old War-Horse, who, let us hope, will receive from his masters that treatment and kindly consideration which his years of service have earned for him.

So I might go on, if time and the editor of this column permitted, but there is no need. You may multiply instances at your leisure. Think of all the animal souls of your acquaintance,—the chattering Magpies, the cunning Foxes, the treacherous Spiders, the gentle Doves, the industrious Ants, the Rats, the Sharks, the Elephants, the Vultures, the Donkeys, the Snakes, and (may I say it?) the Skunks and the Pigs whom, unfortunately, we have also with us. Look around you, study your friends and your enemies, and see where they fit into our zoological scheme. Remember, too, when you are in doubt as to how to classify anyone, that this is a Simian universe.

It may very well be, Gentle Reader, that you and I, trained as we are in the methods of western science, cannot regard this beautiful eastern doctrine as the key to the understanding of our fellow-men. The loss is ours, for it is an idea to conjure with. In our less scientific moments, however, we may perhaps play with it a little. It should afford us all some amusement.

A final note. This theory has endless possibilities. It need not be restricted, for example, to animals. Try it with flowers and plants, some day. Next time you meet your lady friend, see if you can decide whether she is a Rose, a Violet, a Daisy, a Clinging Vine, or a Poison Ivy. Write us a letter about it for next week's Dilettante.

BOOKS ONE READS

SINGLE BLESSEDNESS AND OTHER OBSERVATIONS

By George Ade

Everyone has at least a smiling literary acquaintance with good, homely old George Ade, the doyen of present-day American humorists, the happy coiner of thousands of straight-from-the-shoulder aphorisms.

George Ade's work has been appearing in the leading American newspapers and periodicals for close upon twenty-five years now, and in one of his more serious articles in this his most recent collection of humorous essays he glances back over his career with just the suspicion of a trace of pardonable pride in work well done in a good cause. He has a clean record to look back upon for a humorist, and he has never lowered his flag no matter what the prevailing fad in whimsicality might be. Just at present his countrymen incline towards sandbag whitticisms of the Ring Lardner, H. C. Witwer variety, but staunch old George Ade is as immovable as the Rock of Ages. He uses slang, of course, but very often the slang expression of today is the ordinary cultured phrase of tomorrow. His latest work shows traces of a fault, that is the product of the system and the species rather than of the individual. He is inclined to be too verbose. But humorists are only human, and the flesh is frail. If editors will insist on buying humour by the word as if they were purchasing pork-sausages you can hardly expect anything else.

George, one calls him instinctively by his first name—is a peculiar mixture of lovable naivete and New England acuteness. He has a fraternal fondness for large families, middle westerners, prohibition, griddle cakes, Cooks tourists and other phenomena dear to the hearts of the bourgeoisie. Democracy in his eyes is a sort of magic panacea, a sugared mixture of castor oil and aspirin, guaranteed to cure all the ills that afflict the body-politic. But there is another strain in his make-up as well, when George Ade the dramatist and George Ade the literature speaks out. He does not like musical comedy, road-hogs or braggart New Yorkers and he proclaims this fact in no uncertain voice. Of the former he says:

"I do not wish to be understood as attacking musical comedy. It has helped a great many people who belong in trolley-cars to ride in motor-cars. It provides mental relaxation for the tired business man who doesn't want to think. Probably if he ever stopped to think, he would get up and go out."

His tastes in subject-matter are varied and catholic, from travelling and golf to the vagaries of the youth of the day to college students. Concerning one class of the latter group he opines as follows:

"The sophomore has vast reservoirs filled with special information which would mean nothing to a person more than twenty-four years of age. Alternating with these crowded compartments are roomy, open spaces which are approximately vacuums."

THE THEATRE

THE COMMUNITY PLAYERS

If the Montreal Community Players were nothing more than an ordinary every-day amateur dramatic organization they would be entitled to a certain measure of praise for their performance of "Our Mr. Hepplewhite" at His Majesty's on Monday night. A reasonably smooth and intelligently acted rendition of the lighter sort of farce comedy is the legitimate sort of any ordinary amateur company should be proud to attain. But common courtesy as well as common fairness force us to accept the Community Players at their own valuation. As a rallying ground for amateur actors of some experience, who are desirous of giving the Montreal public the better sort of drama that no efficiently managed travelling company would be short-sighted enough to tour with, simply because the better sort of drama rarely pays on the road,—they fill a unique and exceptionally laudable field. When the Community Players give us Barrie's "Crichton" and promise us "Androcles and the Lion" and "Liliom" they deserve the enthusiastic support of every intelligent, musical-comedy-fond member of the community.

In that case why throw away good material on "Our Mr. Hepplewhite"? Gladys Unger's play isn't even good of its kind. Its social satire was bottled and put away on the shelf some-where about the same year that Messrs Munn and Co. were subjecting their excellent 1903 Champagne to a similar process, but Champagne improves with age and a second-class farce most emphatically does not. There are some humorous lines, but the eager listener has to wait through such a symphony of mere talk, doubtful puns, and questionable motivation, that it is hardly worth the effort.

As has been already stated the performance was a reasonably smooth and intelligently acted rendition of a poorish play, but there were exceptions to the general average both in the heights and in the depths. An organization like the Community Players is forced to "try out" a limited number of applicants of doubtful ability, and when the fates are not as kind as they might be the joy of a possible dramatic find is counterbalanced by the public appearance of well-meaning persons who would be employed to better advantage in scene-painting. In "Our Mr. Hepplewhite" any actors of doubtful histrionic ability were still further hampered through the fault of the playwright by the often unconvincing character of the personages they were supposed to represent. And,—the fates were not kind.

It is with a sigh of relief that we turn to the brighter side of the performance. The honours of the day fall quite unmistakably to Mrs. Crombie for her acting of the part of the Hon. Jane Bagley. Mrs. Crombie revealed astonishing ease and artistic restraint over an emotional range of considerable breadth, and the singularly rich qualities of her voice were a charming asset to a very creditable piece of acting. Mr. Bruce Monier-Williams, who won his spurs a month ago in the title role of "The Admirable Crichton", played with his usual intelligence and precision. At times one wondered whether he had quite managed to disassociate himself from his former part. A glorified butler and the manager of a department store have much in common as far as the tricks of the trade are concerned, and what differences do exist are inclined to be rather subtle. As the Marchesa di Candia Mrs. F. H. Wallis gave just the right touch of cynicism. Miss Mabel Brittain, who played the part of Lady Bagley, appeared to be handicapped by a severe attack of stage nerves with the result that her characterization was glaringly overemphasized.

In the tangle of minor roles those two experienced and ever-dependable amateur performers, Miss Nanette Kennedy and Mr. Louis Mulligan, gave excellent little thumb-nail sketches of Mrs. Appenzell, the intriguing art-dealer, and of Morthorp, a salesman. Mr. Cecil Gordon was thoroughly convincing in the part of the Earl of Lamberhurst, and Miss Ruth Simonds made the most of her ingenu role as Miss Adela Hucks.

On Friday and Saturday of this week the Players will give "The Younger Generation", by Stanley Houghton, best known to Montreal audiences as the author of "Hindle Wakes".

NOTES BY THE WAY

Does P.K. of the "Star" consider the Saint-Saens Concert in the Thibaud recital was tiresome merely because it received more applause than any other number? Apparently vox populi is not vox dei with him.

Pity the successful realist. Most of the "great reading public" find fault with Sinclair Lewis because the characters in "Babbitt" talk slang.

The staff laureate of "The Dilettante" tried to rush an elegy over the wires just before we went to press, but was unfortunately unable to read his own writing.

AT THE CAPITOL

So-called great pictures come and go. Sometimes they merit the epithet; often their greatness seems to rest mainly on the ability of the press agent and less pretentious and less widely known pictures could worthily make a strong claim for admission to the highest class. Such a picture is "The Third Alarm," the feature picture at the Capitol this week.

More and more attention is being given in the present day by producers to concentrate on the all-round development of the picture rather than the feature of a scintillating star. Whereas we have had, and will continue to have, flimsy plots built around a temperamental star, producers are beginning to realize that more than the mere name and acting of the luminaries of the celluloid world is necessary to win the approval of a public which grows more and more critical at each succeeding release.

The producer of "The Third Alarm" has combined with this knowledge a wonderful understanding of human nature. With the brush of an artist, he has painted in the light and the shadow the smiles and the tears, which make his picture more than a mere red-blooded melodrama.

The family and home life of Dan McDowell, veteran fireman, are startlingly real. The fire scenes and the racing of the apparatus through the streets of the great city awake in us in greater degree, the excitement caused by the flaming fire-engine in the childhood story book.

The Capitol players give a praiseworthy interpretation of Oscar Wilde's beautiful fantasy, "The Nightingale and the Rose." The artistic use of scenery and lights materially adds to the beauty of the production.

Bobby Vernon, in "In Dutch," provides the humorous part of the programme, and revives memories of initiation in any McGill fraternity man who may be present.

The overture, Hungarian Lustspiel, by the Capitol Orchestra, and a Capitol news reel complete one of the best programmes offered to the Montreal theatre-going public for some time.

YALE WILL MEET MCGILL IN SHOOT

Teams Entered in Can. Inter-collegiate Rifle Assn.

The Rifle Association of the McGill Contingent C.O.F.C., has arranged a match with the Rifle Association of Yale University, to take place on Saturday, March 3rd, on the Miniature Rifle Range in the Montreal High School.

The Association executive has been particularly active this year, entering teams in both the Miniature .22 and .303 Service competitions of the Canadian Inter-collegiate Rifle Association Competitions have also been arranged with Dartmouth and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Individual trophies have been won by S. B. Nadler, A. E. Manville and H. W. Dagg. Practice shoots are held every Saturday afternoon, and Monday evening at the Montreal High School Range, and the 6th Armouries respectively.

TO THE POINT.

Barber: "Want a hair cut?"
Freshman: "No, want all of them cut."
Barber: "Any particular way?"
Freshman: "Yes, off."

STRONG TEAM WILL MEET NAVY BOXERS

Five McGill Men Will Go to Annapolis

A strong team of boxers leaves for Annapolis Thursday night to represent the Canadian Universities against the Naval Academy. The team is composed of seven men, five of whom are wearers of the Red and White, and the remaining two represent Toronto Varsity.

Brewer and Snow, both of whom succeeded in earning decisions in the Intercollegiate Assault-at-Arms, are members of the team. Merritt, who also won his bout at Kingston, is unable to make the trip because of illness, and permission has been obtained to enter Frank Shackel, last year's college champion, in that weight.

Abimovitch, who will fight in the 160-lb. division, lost a close fight in Kingston after an extra round, with Shute, who will box in the 175 lb. class. On the whole the team is a well-balanced one.

The bouts will take place at Annapolis on Saturday night.

As a matter of fact, three of the Toronto contestants who were defeated by McGill men had won their bouts at Annapolis.

The following is the personnel of the boxing team:—

Wilson—115 lbs.
Snow—125 lbs.
Shackel—135 lbs.
Brewer—145 lbs.
Abimovitch—160 lbs.
Shute—175 lbs, Toronto.
Mahon—Heavyweight.

FACULTY TO AID IN THEATRE NIGHT

Professoriate to Assist and Advise in Plans

The students of the University were assured last night that the members of the Faculty would do all in their power to aid the student body in making the McGill Theatre Night a success.

At a meeting of the main committee held last night the above was made by Prof. Loyd, who, speaking for the members of the faculty, said that the professoriate looked upon the idea with great approbation. In fact, the officials of the University are so desirous of contributing to the success of the evening's entertainment that many of the members have gone to such trouble in order to make the McGill Theatre Night a success.

The Committee from which this statement comes, is composed of members of the faculty appointed by the Principal. The functions of this committee are to aid the undergrads in any possible way; to give counsel when required; and to give such advice and sanctions as are deemed necessary.

At the meeting held yesterday, the various acts and the musical programme were discussed. Many helpful suggestions were given by members of the committee. Another question discussed was the appointment of men to the different important executive positions. The committee feels that if the student body lend their whole-hearted support to this event, that it will be an evening which will be long remembered in the minds of the students of Old McGill.

PHI RHO SIGS WIN FROM PHI DELTS

"Higgie" Higinbotham Performs for Winners

A closely contested and hard played hockey match took place last night between the Phi Delt and Phi Rho Sig fraternities on the Campus rink, resulting in a 2-1 win for the latter. The game was full of spills and thrills. Time and again the spectators involuntarily quivered with excitement at a dash made down the ice by some star player. The outstanding players of the Phi Delt were Robertson, Davies and Gorrie. Robertson played a very effective and hard working game on defence. Davies at left wing, turned in a useful game. Gorrie, on the other wing, displayed lots of speed and some clever stick handling, and accounting for his team's lone tally.

Starring for the Phi Rho Sigs was the new well known player "Higgie" Higinbotham. "Higgie," the man from the west, played the bulk of the game, and may be said to have won the victory for his team, scoring their goals.

The game opened fast and continued so throughout. At the outset the play was very even. Each team worked hard and tried energetically to score, being urged on by the yells of their supporters. "Higgie" soon turned the edge of the game in favor of his team. The speed and excellent stick handling he displayed enabled him to outwit the Phi Delt and carry the puck up the ice within shooting distance time and again. It was only the good work of Timmins in goal that prevented him from piling up an enormous score. The first period ended, however, without a goal for either team.

The second period started with a burst of speed by the Phi Rho Sigs; they played aggressively and forced the Phi Delt on to the defensive. Soon after the start Higinbotham, by a clever piece of stick handling, carried the puck and scored for his team by a neat and cleverly placed shot from the side. For a while the score remained the same. Phi Delt strove hard to score, but the effective checking work of "Higgie" was too much for them. A few minutes later "Higgie" again let loose and scored another goal. At this point a strong come-back was staged by the Phi Delt and Gorrie succeeded in scoring their only goal. The game finished without a change of score.

The line-up follows:—

Phi Rho Sigs.	Goal.	Phi Delt.
Harris	Defence.	Timmins
McKinnon	Defence.	Robertson
Kelly	Centre.	Baillie
Higinbotham	Forwards.	Smith
Hamilton	Subs.	Gorrie
Lauthier		Davies
Saes		Breithaupt
Mann		Ross

INJURED SKIER IS SHOWING PROGRESS

Miss Gardner, the R.V.C. student who was injured severely whilst skiing, has been progressing favorably since the operation. The hospital authorities state that her general condition is improving. She is cheerful and smiling to everyone, and her sunny disposition, at all times evident, has won her the warm regard of all the staff of the General Hospital.

sufficient work to do in the preparations for the big night.

W. P. Malone, of Science '25, who is in charge of organizing the orchestra, will play for this function, brought the attention of those present to bear on the fact that the first practice of this orchestra will take place in the Union this evening at 8.15. He asked that the representatives should attempt to get likely men to come out and assist in this part of the programme, for it is a well-known fact that there is no lack of musicians at McGill.

As this completed the business of the day the meeting adjourned.

Nominated by H. J. Airey, H. N. Crombie, W. H. Martin, John W. Noyes, G. Holman, C. Gillett, J. D. Converse, R. J. Barrett, J. K. Mowat, N. H. McKenzie.

FOR TREASURER—

E. S. Cope, Sc. '25.
Nominated by P. N. Gross, R. E. Dingman, C. H. McNaughton, T. W. Mace, F. W. Wilson, T. M. Eve, H. E. Smith, J. G. Smith, Arthur Chabot, W. J. Shortall.

REPORTER—

A. H. McNab, Sc. '25, Acclamation.
The sixth and final informal dance of the year will be held this Friday, March 2nd, in the ball room of the Union.

McGill Dance Orchestra to Provide Music

All the necessary arrangements to assure a brilliant success for the event have been made, and judging by the sale of tickets a capacity crowd will attend.

The Russian Orchestra, which performed so admirably at the last dance, in spite of frequent strikes, brought on by the fact that all the dancers were not wearing union suits, have now declared a walk-out for no reason at all. However, the McGill University Dance Orchestra will render the necessary soothing strains to universal satisfaction, and a very enjoyable evening is assured for all.

down the ice. Again failing to score for Varsity, the play centred itself around the R.V.C. goal, clever wing work being done by both Miss Hilliard and Miss Thomas. Miss Marshall attempted to score for R.V.C., and though very successful in wrestling the puck from her opponents, she was repeatedly forced to the boards, to a position from which it was impossible to shoot. Miss Stocking and Miss Roy then attempted to score, but no effort of theirs was successful when pitted against the superior skating and weight of the Varsity defence line. In this period, Varsity tried and tried again a clever bit of play which repeatedly met with a success almost breath-taking. Miss Thomas on one wing in a scrimmage near one corner of the ice managed to draw out Miss Kerr from her lair, and after a swift pass to the far wing, Miss Hilliard, from the boards in a long shot over clear ice, netted another goal for Varsity. This play repeated not more than two seconds later, again proved most successful, an then reversing the process Miss Thomas scored from the opposite boards. The score was now 5-0.

R.V.C. then picking up Miss Stocking made a brilliant rush down the ice but now as before, lack of combination on the forward line, made it impossible for her to score. Miss Roy and Miss Fry then repeatedly broke away, but they were no match for the superior combination of the Varsity line-up. Repeated skirmishes around Miss Kerr, who stopped untold shots with a brilliant and swift that was in itself, staggering, kept the score for some time at a standstill, until Miss Hazelwood at length put in another goal, this time on the rebound. Miss Stocking again attempted a brilliant rush, and again the puck was wrested from her. Varsity again played her stellar play Miss Thomas again scoring a goal. Miss Robertson then attempted to break up this clever bit of combination, and though most faithful in her efforts, Miss Thomas again netted a goal for Varsity.

The third period opened with renewed determination on the part of R. V. C. to score. Miss Roy at centre, supported by Miss Stocking, and Miss Robertson, began an aggressive play which, wearied as they were, revealed a fighting spirit that repeatedly roused the spectators to perilous heights of agonized hopefulness. Miss Bingham in this period, as in the two previous, in the capacity of a steady pest, broke away with the puck time and time again, and supported by Miss Roy, attempted to score from the boards. All efforts were however unsuccessful, Miss Stocking and Miss Fry also making numerous attempts to score. Miss Robertson, too, in this period, played an aggressive game which, though fruitless as regards result, brought some clever stick handling into play which brought forth, as before, genuinely appreciative cheers from the audience. Towards the end of the period Varsity again brought her stellar act into play. Miss Kerr now watchful to a degree of subtlety unequalled before, stopped repeated attempts with a speed almost miraculous; play now became more or less haphazard, and in a general skirmish Miss Ross netted one more goal for Varsity.

NOT SO CRAZY.

One of the inmates of the asylum to the janitor: "Say, janitor, is that clock right?"
Janitor: "Yes."
Inmate: "Then what is it doing here?"

love and not before.

The Dean of Windsor does not believe that a female mind is particularly political. In this connection he said: "We do not exactly know how far their influence will reach, but it does not look as if they would send many women to Parliament. Women have not much confidence in the judgment of women. And in the political sphere they are strangers and so far have to prove themselves. Even then women will not vote for women."

Dr. Baillie will leave for Boston to-night and speak there in connection with the English-speaking Union.

This is Dr. Baillie's first visit to Canada. He likes the country well, but notes a great difference between the people of Canada and the United States. "It is almost indescribable. The people of Canada are more like the people of England," he concluded.

TO US CAPITOL FOR CONVOCA TION

Medical Convocation June 11 in R.V.C. Assembly Hall

General Convocation will be held in the Capitol Theatre again this year, it was announced yesterday by the Registrar, Dr. J. A. Nicholson, and it is expected the occasion will be as important as last year when the building was crowded to the doors by students, graduates and friends of the University. Who the speaker of honour is to be, has not yet been decided upon, nor the number of honorary degrees to be conferred.

The plans will closely resemble those of last spring, when the graduating classes and members of the faculty marched in procession from the Campus to the theatre. Whether McGill will have present a person as popular as General Pershing, is still a matter of speculation, but it is rumoured that men of outstanding scholarly abilities have been recommended for the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

The first convocation will take place on May 29th for all faculties with the exception of Medicine. Special attention will be given to the musical end of the programme, and full advantage will be taken of the musical end of the programme and full advantage will be taken of the musical talent of undergraduates. The large stage at the Capitol will once again be the scene of many brilliant colours when the professoriate take their places cloaked in their academic gowns.

The second convocation will be held on June 11th in the Assembly Hall of the R.V.C. for the graduating class in Medicine. This will be the last year to hold a special convocation for the Medical Faculty, in coming years, there will be but one for the entire university. To make this possible the classes in Medicine will start their sessional work during the last week of September and will devote less time to the writing of examinations in the spring of the year.

Seats for a limited number of friends and relatives of the graduating years will be reserved at the Capitol; provision will also be made for students and invited guests while the remainder of the theatre will be at the disposal of the public.

DELTA SIGMA PHI DEFEATED BY A.K.K.

Parlow Stars for Alpha Kappa Kappa

In a one-sided, but gamely contested struggle, played last night, the Alpha Kappa Kappa team sent the Delta Sigma Phi six down to defeat with a 4-1 score. Although the Delta Sigs were outclassed by their opponents, they put up a game fight and the Alpha Kappa Kappa men were not allowed to slacken their pace or take a rest at any time.

Parlow, for the Alpha Kappa Kappa team, was easily the most outstanding man on the ice. He was responsible for all four goals scored by his side, scoring two on passes and the other two on individual rushes. His defensive tactics were also of brilliant quality.

Moran, in the Delta Sigs goals played a brilliant game. He was constantly bombarded by the opposing team, and but for his brilliant work the score would have been doubled or tripled.

Among the Delta Sigs, Marler, de Salaberry and Blaine showed up well. Marler on defense, played a good game, and was extremely effective. His check brought Parlow to grief several times when a goal seemed almost certain. Blaine and de Salaberry on the Delta Sigs forward line, worked hard, and were two reasons why the score was no higher.

The game was handled in a most efficient manner by McKindsley.

The line-ups were:—

Moran T. Brown
Defence. Defence.
Marler Harding
McNutt McIntosh
Forwards. Forwards.
Blaine S. Brown
de Salaberry Parlow

ENJOYABLE BANQUET LAST NIGHT AT R.V.C.

A very enjoyable banquet was given at the R. V. C. last night after the hockey game in honor of the visiting team from Toronto. The dining room was, as on Saturday, charmingly arranged, the tables were decorated with the colors of Toronto and McGill, and the menu was all that could be wished for.

A "favour" bearing the McGill crest was at the place of each Torontonion.

The chairman, Miss Lorna Kerr, proposed a toast to "The King," and the National Anthem was sung. Miss Hurlbutt, in her address of welcome, congratulated the Blue and White team on its well-merited victory, and complimented it upon its splendid playing, and expressed the pleasure felt by all, in entertaining such guests. She spoke very appropriately of the feeling of follow-ship which these intercollegiate games promoted among our universities, and for which other activities might also be entered upon with the same success. She referred to the debate between McGill and Queens. She then proposed a toast to "Our Guests from Toronto," which was responded to by Miss M. R. Thomas, President of the Hockey League, who expressed her appreciation of the welcome given them by the R. V. C.

In the absence of Miss Z. Slack, Miss C. Robertson welcomed the team on behalf of the R. V. C. A. A., and Miss Roy spoke of the good time that the McGill team had been given last year by Varsity, and proposed a toast to the "Success of Future Intercollegiate Feats."

The banquet was brought to a close by the singing of "The Blue and White" and "Alma Mater."

You can't understand people. Some of those who don't have to work are ad.

GIRLS BEWARE!

He was a Commerce Senior. He longed to go to the Alma Mater dance. For weeks he had dreamed of waltzing over the glistening floor with fluffly dreams of femininity. He was captivated and enthralled to such an extent that he had his dress suit cleaned (dry) and pressed and he even went so far as to buy a bottle of vaseline for his encouraging moustache. Everything was completed, everything but . . . and then it slowly dawned on his military mind that he had no girl. His C.O.T.C. training was useless here. He was in a dilemma and cold beads of perspiration rolled down his stern face for bays.

Suddenly he had it. His trained brain had solved it. His scheme was new. It would be a sensation and he would be mentioned in the press! His chest filled as he thought of it.

He rushed to Notman's. He demanded breathlessly that they take his picture and ordered a hood to be thrown carelessly over his military shoulders. With his usual "savoir faire" he gazed with dignity into the camera. He repeated this again but with more dignity. The appointment ended, he swung into the street sighing contentedly.

When the proofs were finished he chose the most stately one, and with it marched martially into the Arts Building. With a confident air of success he pinned it on the girl's notice board beside a rival poster of Teddy Bears. With his pen he scribbled his advertising masterpiece. Taking two paces to the rear he viewed it with pride. "Perfection," he breathed.

A crowd gathered. Words of praise flowed from their lips. Co-eds gasped, freshmen worshipped and stood spell-bound as they read the heights of aggressive advertising.

"WANTED BY THE ABOVE. GIRL FOR THE ALMA MATER DANCE."

Last night the Daily reporter tried to get into touch with this Commerce genius, but his telephone was still busy when the Daily went to press.

FOUND.

Three books marked "T. H. Matthews, Arts Building," have been reposing in the cloak room at the Union for a month. Owner is requested to put in claim for them at the aforesaid place.

Mother (alarmed)—Why do you keep Jack in suspense? Why don't you say "yes?"

Daughter (coolly)—I'm just getting even with him.—Judge.

Maloney, jr.—What's an "amicable settlement," Pa?

Maloney, sr.—A town where there is no Irish, Oi suppose, sonny.
